IN MEMORIAM

It is with heavy hearts that we bring you the sad news of Alden Wright’s passing on April 29.

Alden and Katie Wright have been stalwart supporters of our Long Beach/Lakewood Chapter and we send our heartfelt condolences to Katie and family.

Katie is Editor of The Informer, a member of the Membership Committee, and our best cheerleader.

Please see page 2 for details on the date and location of the services.

MEET OUR TEAM CAPTAIN

Connor Waterman is again the captain of our Walk4Hearing team: The Beach Bums. He’s the grandson of Chapter members, Katie and Alden Wright. His hearing loss was discovered during his kindergarten physical. He’s now in first grade and doing well with the support of his teacher and his parents.

We all know that kids just like Connor need support, empowerment and help advocating for themselves and others who have hearing loss.

The Walk is just a few weeks away - June 6th. Please donate to this great cause. Here is what HLAA does with the funds:

- Raises public awareness and providing education about hearing loss
- Leads efforts to de-stigmatize hearing loss;
- Advocates for the rights of people with hearing loss, including captioning in theaters and the internet;
- Offers local seminars on coping with hearing loss for families;
- Offers support for parents of children with hearing loss;
- Offers outreach to war veterans with hearing loss.

Forty percent of the money our Chapter raises comes back to us.

HOW TO DONATE

- Bring a check to a meeting
- Mail a check to Walt Lowrie

BREAKTHROUGH IN ANTIBIOTIC - CAUSED HEARING LOSS

By HearingLikeMe Editorial Staff
January 15 2015

<http://www.hearinglikeme.com/blog/breakthrough-antibiotic-caused-hearing-loss>

Did you know that some antibiotics can cause hearing loss? Aminoglycosides are powerful antibiotics, but they can have serious side effects, including kidney damage and permanent hearing loss. Between 20 and 60 percent of people treated with these drugs suffer partial or total hearing loss as a result. Despite this, aminoglycosides are used to treat infections such as tuberculosis, pneumonia, and sepsis; they're also used in neonatal intensive care.

Now, scientists at Stanford University School of Medicine have developed a modified version of one aminoglycoside, called sisomicin. The new version has been shown to work effectively in mice without the ototoxic (literally "ear poisoning") and nephrotoxic (damaging to the kidneys) side effects.

MESSAGE FROM KATIE WRIGHT

Dear Family and Friends,

In celebration of Alden, we will be swapping stories and dipping our feet in the waves south of the Seal Beach pier from 10 am to 11:30 am on Saturday, May 9th. Hawaiian shirts and sandals encouraged. The celebration will continue at the Wright household after 1:00 pm with sandwiches, snacks and more stories. Join us and share your memories of Alden at one or both of these events.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donating to Long Beach Walk4Hearing, Alden Wright.

Thank you ... and hug your loved ones ...

From Katie Wright and family
Kristi, Jay, Sean, Connor and Liam

MAY PROGRAM

Robin Itzler, "The Marketing Maven" in the Orange County Breeze, will share her experiences on purchasing her first smartphone. A Columnist, trainer and author, Robin Itzler has been involved in marketing and communications for more than 35 years. Her columns on the Orange County Breeze often blend politics, motivation and marketing to offer unique perspectives about headline issues.

As a member of the newly-formed Orange County Hearing Loss Association of America chapter, Robin shares her experiences and determination for succeeding in the hearing world. Her columns have appeared in Hearing Loss Magazine, most recently the March/April 2015 issue.

A former NASD licensed securities representative, she once served as president of the Animal Assistance League of Orange County. She and her husband Larry own Royal Care Pet Sitting. An award-winning editor and writer, Robin is the former editor-in-chief of Toastmasters International Founders' District where her articles and newsletters were read by members in 180+ clubs. Currently, she handles publicity and public relations for several local non-profit associations.

Legally deaf from hereditary progressive nerve deafness, Robin doesn't let her hearing loss define her. A former New Yorker, she has one word for anyone who doubts her abilities: Fuggedaboutit!

REMINDER – DONATE YOUR OLD HEARING AIDS

Old hearing aids are still being collected for the John Tracy Clinic. Bring them to the next meeting. If you have a question or problem that relates to your hearing, please submit to: info@hllalongbeachlakewood.org. If you have old copies of the magazine "Hearing Loss" please bring them to the next meeting.

$ TIME TO PAY YOUR DUES $

It's time to pay your Chapter dues for the new year. Walt Lowrie will be accepting your of $1.00 cash at the next few meetings. You can also mail it to him at Walt Lowrie 5072 Fanwood Ave., Lakewood, CA 90713.

NEW WHITE HOUSE RECEPTIONIST IS A WEST WING PIONEER: “DEAF PEOPLE CAN DO ANYTHING”

Eun Kyung Kim TODAY
March 27, 2015

Anyone wanting to speak to the president must stop by her desk first. Leah Katz-Hernandez, 27, is the new White House receptionist.

She is also deaf.

“It’s a fantastic opportunity and also to show that deaf people can do anything,” she said through an interpreter, who is provided for her at work.

With a desk just steps away from the Oval Office, Katz-Hernandez is usually the first to greet anyone — from world leaders to White House staff members — who has an appointment with the president or his top-level aides. She also oversees the White House guest book and the Roosevelt Room, the West Wing meeting room, and is responsible for collecting cell phones before meetings with the president.

Katz-Hernandez is defined by her accomplishments, not her disability, said Josh Earnest, the White House press secretary. “She represents us very well,” he told NBC’s Peter Alexander. The Connecticut native was born deaf to two deaf parents — a Jewish, social worker mother and a Mexican-American father who put himself through college and earned a PhD.

A former White House intern, Katz-Hernandez worked for President Obama’s re-election campaign before being hired onto the staff of First Lady Michelle Obama, who used sign language the first time they met to introduce herself.

“It is a great responsibility to be here as a deaf person and I feel very proud of the opportunities that have been given to me,” she said.

APRIL MEETING SUMMARY

Business - $1211 Chapter Director and Officer Insurance extension for this year: Special thanks was given to Betty Evans, the daughter of Raymond Blue, for her $1000 donation for this insurance again this year. Extension of the insurance was approved by vote of the members.

Vote and Installation of Chapter Officers: The following officers for this coming year were elected and installed: Dr. Bill Busch, President; Gail Morrison, Vice President; Walt Lowrie, Treasurer; Craig Bowlby, Recording Secretary; and Ken Saw, Corresponding Secretary. Dr. David DeKriek, our Professional Advisor, installed the new officers.

Program – As led by Katie Wright, we played Bingo as a social event with the opportunity to win prizes at no cost to the players. The prizes included hearing aid batteries and flowers donated by Dr. DeKriek, 9 used but operational amplified telephones compliments of the HAT Committee, a Starbucks card donated by Katie Wright and a bottle of wine donated by Stephen Fisher.

Announcements - Dr. Bill Busch

Refreshments - Served by Marie O’Brien and Marion Camilleri our refreshment co-chairs. Thanks to all those who provided the refreshments.

Don’t forget to sign up for the Ralphs Community Contribution Program. Ralphs will contribute a small percentage of your dollars to the Long Beach/Lakewood Chapter of the Hearing Loss Association of America if you enroll in the program.

You can register online at www.ralphs.com or you can get a scan bar letter from Stephen Fisher, Ways & Means Chairman, at our Chapter meeting. You can also arrange to have a letter mailed to you. Take the letter and your Rewards card with you the next time you shop.

Ask your friends and family to sign up also!

SPRING CLEAN YOUR HEARING AID

Many of us consider spring the season of clean up and repair. Much like an automobile, it may be time to give your hearing aids a little extra attention to keep them running at peak performance. While you should be cleaning your hearing aids all the time in order to keep these investments in your hearing health functioning as long as possible, now may be time to take your maintenance routine to the next level.

Are you keeping your hearing aids dry enough?

Moisture is your hearing aids' enemy. If perspiration or water collects in the delicate circuitry they will stop working. If your regular drying routine simply consists of laying your hearing aids down on a towel at night with the battery compartment open, it's time to invest in a dehumidifier. These handy gadgets will dry out your hearing aids much more effectively than air drying alone, saving you money on repairs and extending the life of your hearing aids.

Are you getting out all the wax and dirt?

Wiping the outer components and earmolds (if you have them) of your hearing aids with a soft cloth may seem sufficient to clean them of wax, debris, dust, and other contaminants, but you may be missing a lot of build-up that, over time, will affect the performance and longevity of your devices. Make sure you have cleaning tools you can use to get into tiny openings like the receiver, tubing, microphone, and vents. As for earmolds, ask your audiologist for advice on removing and washing them in mild soapy water for extra cleanliness. And if you're having a lot of difficulty with earwax, ask how best to address the problem, perhaps by having your ears professionally cleaned. Just don't take a DIY approach to earwax removal — using cotton swabs or misusing over-the-counter wax removal kits can do far more harm than good.

Have you had your hearing aids professionally serviced in the past year?

If you haven't seen your hearing care professional for awhile, spring is as good an excuse as any to bring your hearing aids in for a "tune-up". Your audiologist can clean or replace microphone screens if need be, check and replace any plastic tubing starting to break down due to wear and tear, and otherwise make sure your hearing aids are in tip-top shape. Just like any high-tech device, hearing aids that are regularly cleaned and maintained will work better and last far longer than their neglected counterparts.
